IVES'S POOL BILL PASSED.

HAD JUST THE REQUISITE NUMBER OF VOTES IN THE SENATE.

c Senate's Amondments Concurred in by the Assembly-Vedder's Liquor Tax Bill a Special Order for Tuesday-The Cable Road Bill Rushed Through the Senate.

ALBANY, May 12 .- The Ives Pool bill passed the Senate without a vote to spare to-day, after it had been amended so as to make its return to the Assembly for concurrence in the amendments necessary. The bill was con-sidered restorday in Committee of the Whole. and to-day it came up on final passage. Sena-tor Parker offered, as amendments, that the racing season be restricted between May 15 and Oct. 15, and that the sale of pools at any other place than the race track on racing days be punishable by imprisonment of from one to five years in the penitentiary. The amendments were adopted.

Senator Vedder denounced the bill as an authorization of gambling. This unusual parade of virtue caused some amusement, and the Senator's motion to recommit the bill with Instructions to strike out the enacting clause even Republicans voting against the motion. Senator Griswold moved to except Kings county from the provisions of the bill. The people of Brooklyn, he said, protested against its passage, and if it did pass he wanted his county excepted from the resulting evil.

Senator Pierce denied that public sentiment in Brooklyn was opposed to the bill. There were excellent people against it, and there were Senator Pierce donied that public sentiment in Brocklyn was opposed to the bill. There were sexcellent people against it, and there were good citizens in favor of it. Some of the people who opposed it were cranks. There was no doubt that the majority of the people of Brocklyn favored it.

Senator Worth favored the bill because the people of his district favored it, as they showed by giving District Attorney Ridgway a big majority on that issue last fall. The defeat of the bill would depreciate to the extent of $1,000,000 at least the value of the railroads, hotels, and racing properties in Kings county, let alone New York and the rost of the State.

The bill passed, 17 to 14, not a vote to spare, as seventeen votes are required to pass a bill in the Senate. There were two more Senators who would have voted for the bill had it been necessary. Twelve of the ayes were Democrats. The other five were Coggeshall, Hoysradt, McMillan, Raines, and Worth, Republicans. All the noes were Republicans. Senator Low did not vote no until it was seen that the bill had passed. Senator Fasset did not vote. By an amicable arrangement between the Democrats and Republicans the Vedder Liquor Tax bill was made a special order for Tuesday next. The Republicans had intonded to change the rules to allow this to be done, which would have caused a row, as the rules provide that it akes a two-thirds vote to change them. The bill was reported from the Ways and Means Committee, with Sheehan, Dickey, Gisse, and Finn dissenting. The Committee on Rules was empowered to sit during the recess to revise the manual and report to the next Assembly. The Republicans promised not to alter the rules before the last day of the session.

The bill to extend the Brooklyn Bridge on the Brooklyn side passed the Assembly as it had passed the Senate.

The McCann bill to prevent speculating in futures was killed. It would interfere with farmers contracts to deliver their farm products, and Editor Platt feared that he could not make contracts to deliver their farm pelling good sanitary conditions spassed the Assembly.

The bill to allow the Labor party an inspector of elections in New York city passed the Assembly after it had been tinkered by Mr. Erwin, so as to give ground for the accusations that the Republicans were trying to make a deal with the labor men. As the bill was prepared by John McMakin it simply provided that the Labor party should have an inspector. Mr. Erwin had the bill amended so that itchanged the method of appointing inspectors from the ordinary one, of the Board of Folice Commissioners adopting the names selected by the leaders of the respective parties, and provides that the labor inspectors are to be selected by some one Commissioner afterward to be selected. The object of this is to throw the selection into the hands of the Republican Commissioner French or McClave. The Democrats protested against this amendment and sixteen of them voted against the bill because it was retained.

Mr. Erwin led the assault on the Howe Uni-teen of them voted against the bill because it was retained.

Mr. Erwin led the assault on the Howe Universal High License bill, which came up this afternoon, and killed it by having the five-gallon bill substituted for it. Of the original Howe bill was that it made a high license the Howe bill was that it made a high license fee applicable as well in the country as in New York city, though the New York rate was three times as great. It divided licenses into three main and three minor classes. The main classes were liquors, wine, and beer. The liquor license is fixed at $500, $300, $200, and $150, according to the size of the place; the wine and beer license is $250, $150, and $100, and the beer license is $100, $75, and $50. The classes are cities of over 200,000 inhabitants and under 200,000 inhabitants ciasses are cities of over 290,000 inhabitants and under 200,000 inhabitants, and towns and rural districts.

The main opposition to the bill came from the Republicans, and it shows the sincerity of their high license protestations that only 10 voted for this bill, which its a real high license bill. The rural Republicans opposed it because it made a $150 license necessary in their neighborhoods. The Vedder bill, which they favor, makes the New York license $400 and the country license $400. It has been figured out by the country members that this Vedder bill will take over $2,000,000 from New York city, to be distributed through the State treasury to the rural list thack from the tax. This is not because of the number of salcons in New York, for, per capita, New York has fewer salcons than Cattaraugus county, where Senator Vedder comes from but because a New York man is charged thirteen times as much as a Cattaraugus man. That is the reason why rural Republicans favor it. It should be entitled 'An act to make the Democratic cities of New York and the Democratic cities of New York and the New York and Yor

Comptroller, to be distributed to county fairs and agricultural associations for premiums. The number of days of racing is restricted to thirty, between May 15 and Oct, 15, but there is nothing to prevent racing on two or more adjacent grounds or tracks thirty days each, Penalities are provided for the violation of the law, and selling pools at any other place than the race tracks on race days is made a felony, punishable by imprisonment of from one to five years. The Hogeboom bill, to allow railroads to charge an extra rate of fare to passengers who have no tickets, passed the Assembly through the efforts of the Speaker and Clerk.

The Collateral Inheritance Tax bill was discussed by the Senators after their cable road performance.

THE STATUE OF GARFIELD.

UNVEILED WITH IMPOSING CEREMO-NIES IN WASHINGTON.

Creeted by his Comrades of the Army of the Cumberland and Presented by Thom to the Nation-President Cleveland's Speech, WASHINGTON, May 12.-The second day of the reunion of the Society of the Army of the Cumberland was a perfect specimen of Washington spring weather. The sky was cloud-less, the temperature delightful, and a light breeze tempered the sun's rays just enough to make an ideal day for the ceremonies of un-veiling of the Garfield statue. At the business meeting this morning of the society Col. Henry Stone of Boston was selected as the orator and Col. William McMichael of New York as alternate of the next reunion, which is to be held in Chicago in Chickamauga week. The present officers of the society were reflected for the coming year.

The sculptor, J. Q. A. Ward, was elected a life member of the society. A resolution was unanimously adopted presenting to the widow of Gen. Thomas "the assurance that we re-member her heroic and gallant husband as our adopted father, and beg her to receive from us the love, sympathy, and respect due her from her sons,"

Long before the hour fixed for the starting of the procession all was bustle in the neighbor-hood of the Arlington Hotel. The procession, which was in two divisions, started promptly way, followed by Gen. Baird and his aids, and a arriage in which were seated Gens. Sherman, way, followed by Gen. Baird and his aids, and a carriage in which were seated Gens. Sherman, Sheridan, and Rosecrans, three of the four living commanders of the Army of the Cumberland, Gen. Buel. the remaining commander, being unable to be present.

The first division marched up H street to Eighteenth, to Pennsylvania avenue, to Third street, where it bebouched and marched down Third to Maryland avenue, and halted on that avenue near the monument. The second division continued on its course and took position on First street, at the north of the statue. On a grand stand near the statue seats had been arranged for 1.500 persons. The stand was profusely draped with bunting, and ornamented with palms and potted plants. A tattered battle flag hung from its staff at either corner of the speakers' dosk. A pair of comfortable arm chairs placed in the centre of the stand were reserved for the President and Mrs. Cleveland. Places were also reserved for the stand were reserved for the President and Mrs. Cleveland. Places were also reserved for the stand were reserved for the sculptor and other favored guests. Just before 1 P. M. the invited guests begen to arrive. James and Harry Garfield were escorted to seats by Gen. Mussey, Col. Wilson performing a similar office for the aged W. W. Corcoran. Secretary Bayard and Attorney-General Garland were seated to the left of Mrs. Cleveland. The members of the Supreme Court of the United States came in a body, excepting Justices Woods and Harian, and were seated in the first row on the left of the speakers' stand. The District Judiciary, members of the Court of Clalms, the District Commissioners, and representatives of the diplomatic corps were also present. Gens. Sherman, Sheridan, and Rosectans and Gov. Curtin arrived in a carriage just after the head of the procession made its appearance. They were soon followed by President Cleveland, escorted by Gen. Anderson and Secretary Lamar. Mrs. Cleveland was accompanied by Mrs. Folsom, Miss Bayard, and Miss Welsh. Ex-Secretary Windom an minutes past I o'clock Marshal Wilson, taking his place on the stand, said:

Attention ladies and gentlemen. The Society of the Army of the Cumberland, with these distinguished guests are assembled here to day for the purpose of unveiling the statue of that eminent statesman and soldier. James A. Garfield. The exercises will be opened with prayer by the Rev. Dr. Glesy.

After the prayer the Marine band struck up "Hail to the Chief," and amid the clapping of hands the American flag enveloping the statue was dropped, and the great bronze image stood exposed to the rays of the midday sun. The statue is the design of the sculptor Ward, who also designed the equestrian statue of Gen. Thomas in this city. It is ten feet six inches in height, and represents Garfield facing the west in the act of delivering an address, with his right hand resting on a column and a manuscript held in his loft. Recumbent ideal figures at each corner of the triangular pedestal represents the student, the warrior, and the statesman, typifying the three epochs in Gen. Garfield's career. Bronze tablets above the figures bear a globe, a trumpet, and sword, and a laurel wreath enclosing the scales of justice. The inscriptions upon the shaft are placed upon three sides as follows:

Southwest face—James A. Garfield 1831—1881.

Southwest face—James A. Garfield, 1831—1881.

A battery of artillery fired a national salute, and then Gen. Sheridan introduced the orator of the day, Gen. J. Warren Keifer, who, on the part of the Monument Committee, delivered an address transferriag the statue to Gen, Sheridan. At its conclusion Gen. Sheridan, in behalf of the society, transferred the statue to the President of the United States in the following words:

I have the bonor sir, on behalf of the Society of the Army of the Cumeerland, to ask you as the rep-resentative of the American people to accept the statue from their hands as it was given to me. The President, who arose as Gen. Sheridan began speaking, then delivered his address, accepting the statue as a gift to the nation. He said:

Amid the interchange of fraternal greetings between the survivors of the Army of the Cumberland and their former foces upon the baltiefield, and while the Union General and the people's President awaited burial, the common grief of these magmanimous survivors and mourning citizens found expression in the determination to erect this tribute to American greatness and thus to day, in its symmetry and beauty, it presents a sign of animosities forgotten, an emblem of a brotherhood redeemed, and a token of a nation restored.

During the delivery of his address the President was frequently interrupted by appliause. He spoke fluently and in a clear voice, which was audible to most of the vast crowd that filled the circle before the stand. When he had concluded the band played "Hail Columbia," and the flev. F. D. Power, who was the pastor of Gen. Garfield's church in this city, pronounced the benediction. The troops were then dismissed, and the ceremonios ended.

THE NATIONAL GAME.

Game in Philadelphia.

PHILADRIPHIA, May 12.—The New Yorks won to day's game from the Philadelphias by the smallest possible score. It was a grand contest, and the five thousand speciators present arrew fairly wild with enthusiaum over the many brilliant plays. The struggle was between the pitchers, and never were two men more merved for battle or better supported than Casey and Keefe. Every ball pitched had a part to play in the game, and each and every one seemed to do its duly. The Philadelphias couldn't hit Keefe and the New Yorks couldn't hit Casey. Each team made four hits off the opposing pitcher, but the New Yorks got two bases on balls to one for the home team, while the latter made up for this in having the greatest number of total hits. There was not a wild pitch or a passed ball made by either battery. Brilliant bits of fielding were scattered all through the game, and the misplays were few and far between, but here the visitors gained the advantage. Their only error was a missed grounder by Richardson, which did no damage, while two of the Philadelphias' errors, bunched in the seventh inning, allowed the New Yorks to make the much coveted run. Harry Wright didn't exactivy how how to place his ream, and before Rhe game he had Ruffinton practising on first and Mulvey on third. Mulvey's ankle is still very sore, and Ferguson was put on third. Farrar could not be spared from first, os Buffingston had to lay off. Bastian was on second for the first time in a championship game, and the crowd made him doff his cap two or three times after he came on the grounds.

Later on, when the little second baseman made some very brilliant and difficult plays, the enthusiasm was unbounded, and Umpire Wilson had to lay off. Emil Geias, a Chicago boy 19 years old, has been signed to pitch for the Chicagos. He is a brother of William Geias, formerly of the Deiroits and new of New Orleans. The small boy in front of THE Sigs office was happy yesterday afternoon. While the score of the New York. Philade-philage game was being put up these were some of his comments: "That's the way to play ball." "Did them good to be shaken up ""Worder if Buck is playing "Not many errors in that game," "Butcher lure got in dat run."

Under the leadership of several of the most substantial dividend-paying stocks the market improved further to-day in every respect. The volume of business was about 25 7 cent. larger than yesterday, and the net results, so far as prices are concerned, an average improvement of over 14 & cent. The market broadened perceptibly. The most conspicuous leader was Northwest, at a further net improvement of 1% Florent. Lake Shore followed very closely after it, while there were very large transactions in St. Paul at a more moderate improvement. There was a little less doing in Western Union. but it more than held yesterday's improvement. The idea that the present advance in it is based upon progress toward an alliance with the Baltimore and Ohio telegraph system was not so pronounced an influence to-day as yesterday, but aside from this the opinion is gaining ground that the company can, and is likely to return to a dividend-paying basis without any modification of the present competition.

A revival of the trading in Richmond Terminal at a substantial advance of 2 % cent. gave a decided impetus to speculation generally. No tangible reason was assigned for this movement, which had the merit of being exceedingly well executed. The preferred stock, upon which it is said a dividend will soon be leclared, moved in unison with the common. The coal stocks held a middle place, and were favorably affected by the positive information that a strike of the anthracito miners is altogether unlikely at this time. .

The special stocks were a prominent feature. Colorado Coal was extensively dealt in at a net advance of 2% ? cent. Wheeling and Lake Eric gained 1%; St. Louis and San Francisco Eric gained 1's; St. Louis and San Francisco preferred was in better demand on account of the retention of the present management by the stockholders of the company; Pullman's Palace Car rose 3's 7 cent., and Wabash preferred was active and hisher. A movement may be noted in Columbus. Hocking Valley and Toledo. In connection with the trial of the suit for restitution against the former management. The market moved pretty uniformly, and, after an early afternoon reaction, closed strong at about the best prices. Chicago operators were evidently responsible for a fair proportion of the business: London took more interest than it has for several days, and most of the local operators of any importance appear to have ranged themselves upon the bull side. An exception may be noted in the case of some of the recent would-be leaders who are now hardly heard from, but their utterances show that they are not in accord with the more confident speculative temper, while the stock upon which they are not in accord with the more confident speculative temper, while the stock upon which they are not in accord with the more confident speculative temper, while the stock upon which they are not in accord with the more confident speculative temper, while the stock upon which they are not in accord with the more confident speculative temper, while the stock upon which they are not in accord with the more confident speculative temper, while the stock upon which they are the temper, while the stock upon which they are not in accord with the more confident speculative temper, while the stock upon which they are not in accord with the more confident speculative temper, while the stock upon which they are not in accord with the more confident speculative temper of the fact that the market starts off under the leadership of such stocks as Northwest, Lake Shore, and Wostern Union. No better proof of the general tendency of the market could be desired than is found in the fact that it he dealings to-day were distributed through as great a nu preferred was in better demand on account of
